

College of New Caledonia, Prince George BC

November 20th, 2015

The College of New Caledonia has been a main centre for RJTW instructor training being centrally located in Prince George to service the Northern BC region where RJTW program instructor training is embedded into KINS 110 class (Introductory to Sport Administration). As a result of the students' semester of training, 40 first year Kinesiology students had an opportunity to plan and run a Sports Day for school children. Forty grade 4-6 students from Nusdeh Yoh, the first Aboriginal school of choice in BC, were invited to participate in a Sports Day. This year, the event was tied into RBC Sports Day in Canada where events included Run, Jump, Throw stations, games, bouldering, mini-soccer, gymnastics and floor hockey!
